

Homogenous Systems

Abdon Morales
The University of Texas at Austin
M 340L
Dr. Kirk Blazek

June 10th, 2024
Lecture 4

A homogenous linear system is a system of the form  $A\vec{x} = \vec{0}$ . If  $\vec{x}$  becomes 0, then this ALWAYS solve a homogenous system; this is also called the trivial solution.

The question becomes: are there non-trivial solutions, and what are they?